THE COMBINED BOOK EXHIBIT

Dear Conference Attendee:

The Combined Book Exhibit® welcomes you to the 2018 Public Library Association conference. Here you will find books, ebooks, periodicals and non-print materials chosen specifically for this conference by our participating publishers.

How to Use this catalog in conjunction with the display:

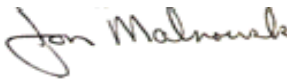
The catalog is arranged alphabetically by BISAC subject category, with each item numbered and cross-referenced to the actual display copy for easy reference and note taking. We encourage you to browse through the collection and take this exhibit catalog with our compliments.

You may order any item in this catalog through library distributors or directly through the publisher. This information is listed in the back of this catalog, alphabetically by publisher, and includes the publisher's complete contact information, as well as their distributor information where available.

In addition to this catalog, this information, as well as the information for almost 100,000 thousand books, and non-print material is all available online at www.combinedbook.com or you can view the title information specifically for this show at Combinedbook.com. Click on "Show Catalogs" on the home page and you can see title information on every title available, as well as contact information for upwards of 13 thousand publishers. Distributor information is also listed, and you can purchase books from links on The Book Checkout to Amazon.com or Barnes and Noble.

We thank you for reviewing this special exhibit and hope it has helped you in your plans to find new materials for your library or institution. If you should have specific questions, please feel free to ask the exhibit representative or call or write us at the address below.

Sincerely,



Jon Malinowski

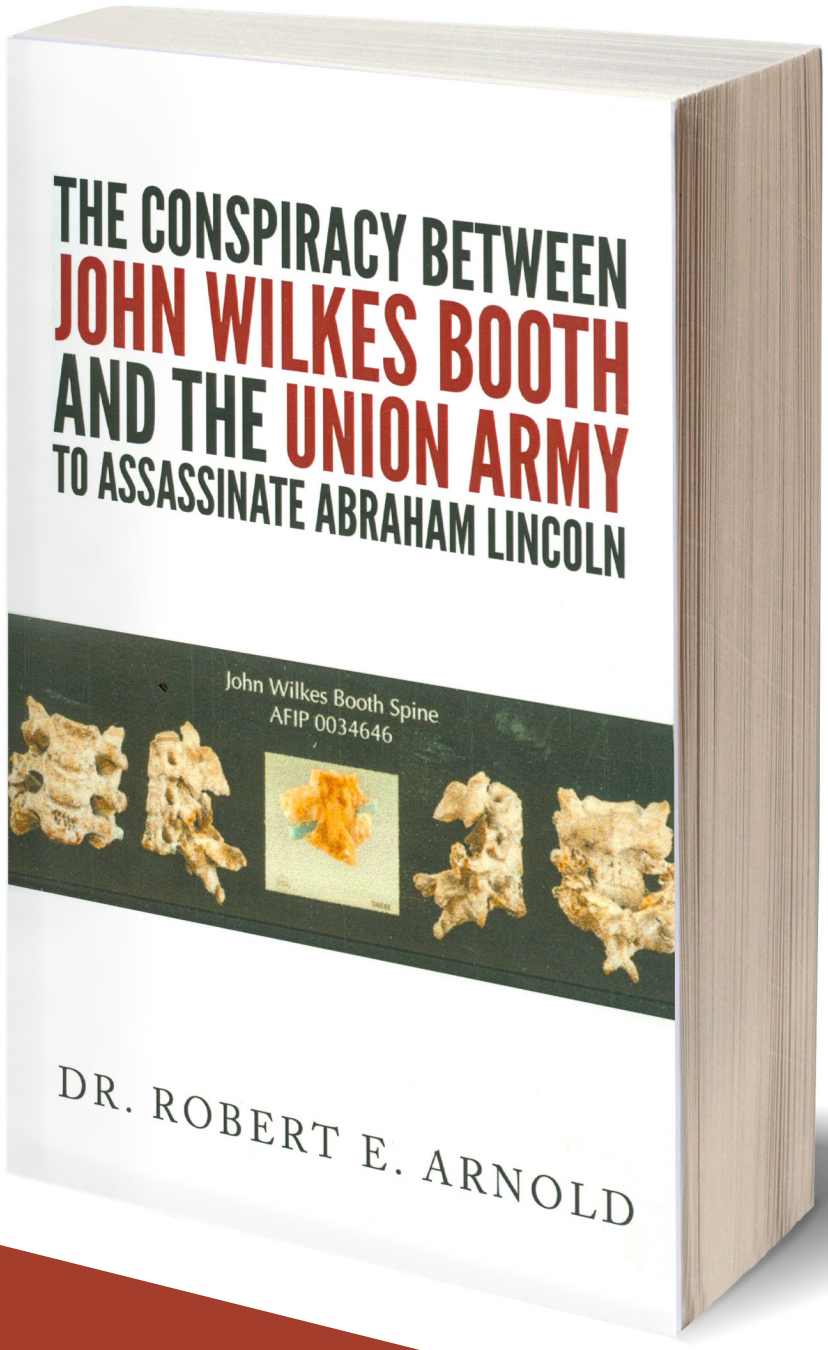
This is the story of the assassination whose perpetrators were hidden for 150 years. The meticulous preparations of the conspirators are brought to light by the documents and evidence that was collected at the time, but obscured from public view in the national archives.



"The colored people believe Mr. Lincoln to be the best friend that we had. I would go to the point of my life to find the murderers." This lament was expressed by John Morris, an African American worker in Ford's theater, and it showed the affection that the African American community had for Abraham Lincoln. Mr. Morris and the other African American employees of Ford's theater were particularly distressed because the had seen the meticulous preparations that the Ford's and their employees had successfully made to ensure that Lincoln would be murdered and Booth escape. They believed that he was killed because he had worked tirelessly to win their freedom and had been killed because of it. They did their best to catch the murderers but were thwarted by the individuals conducting the search.

Joseph Holt, the Judge Advocate General of the Army,who conducted the investigation would not release any of the information that The African Americans gave him to the press and those who knew too much were arrested and put in prison to prevent any leaking of incriminating evidence, and seven African Americans were arrested.

The effort by the African American community to catch Booth has never been made public before. This book is the only one ever published that gives them credit and names names using actual testimony in the archives. This is a part of history that has been hidden too long.

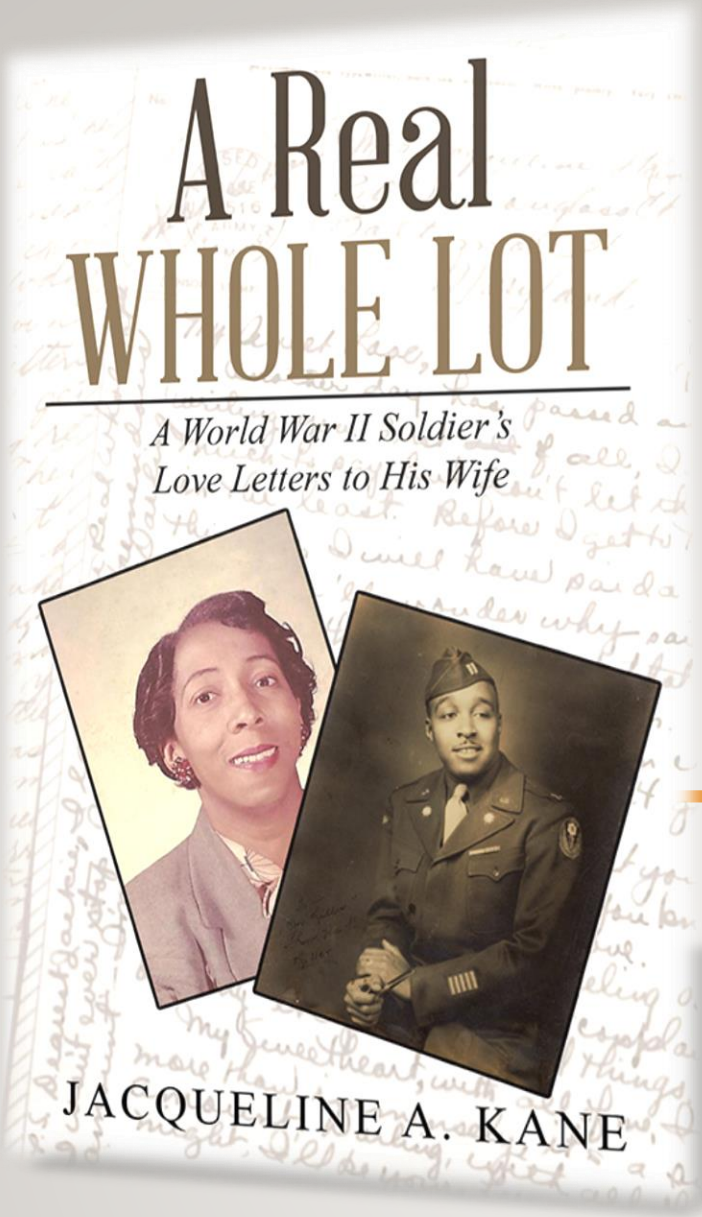
Captain Robert Arnold is a retired Naval Surgeon who was an Instructor in Advanced Trauma Life Support for the Department of Defense. He was a member of Fleet Surgical Team Four as well. He was deployed several times and served all over the world – from the Arctic Circle to the Indian Ocean. As a civilian, Dr. Arnold practiced General Surgery and was the Assistant Coroner for Jefferson County for five years. He currently lives in Louisville, KY with Betty, his wife of 60 years.



About the Book:

Love springs eternal! Its' depth is most poignant when heard in the voice, when hand written on a found sheet of paper. Upon their deaths, the love of Phil and Jack is revealed in some 200 transcribed v-mail and a dozen paper letters found while going through family papers. Largely from Phil to Jack while he was serving in the Army during WWII, these letters provide a mere glimpse of the author's parent's intense love for each other during the early years of their marriage. As young adults they were separated during most of their first 4 plus years of marriage. On the pages of this book -- in a manner seemingly long past -- is an opportunity to share the feelings that this couple strove to communicate to each other during their separation in this unforgettable historical moment in time. Here on these pages – for those who treasure memories, and cherish that almost antiquated practice of handwritten letters – find love.

ABOUT THE BOOK

The protagonist, Meera, emigrates from India to Canada as a newlywed. Unfortunately, her husband dies within a few months. Her dear friend, Jane, commits suicide soon after. To fulfill her last wishes, Meera adopts Jane's illegitimate son, Rishi.

Jane's ruthless and wicked mother, Helena, has Rishi in an immoral and convoluted web of deceit. Rishi grows into a conflicted adolescent partly because of racism he experiences at school and partly due to Helena's indoctrination against his mother. Rishi leaves Meera in spite of the sacrifices she made for him, refusing a marriage proposal twice.

The protagonist is a highly moral and compassionate human who refuses to compromise her essence. Constantly striving to preserve some semblance of beauty and truth in her turbulent life, Meera's story is about sacrifice, struggle and survival, decrepitude and triumph, and pain and transcendence by the Spirit, The Fifth Dimension.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

Ramma Kher (her maiden name) was born in Lahore, India, in 1945. She spent her early childhood in Simla where the stunning beauty of the Himalayas nurtured her great love for nature. Her family moved to Chandigarh in 1952, where she resided until her immigration to Canada in 1968, to obtain her doctorate degree in Biology.

Ramma conducted scientific research for many years before retiring due to ill health.

An avid reader, she did some story writing as a young woman but did not publish.

After retiring from sciences, poor health and her commitment to her family prevented Ramma from pursuing her desire to write. At last, life is favourable for her to realize her dream. The Fifth Dimension is her first attempt at writing and publishing her works.

Ramma lives in Lethbridge, Canada. She is currently working on her second book.

Cliven Bundy caught the world's headlines by making a historic stand in the Nevada Desert.

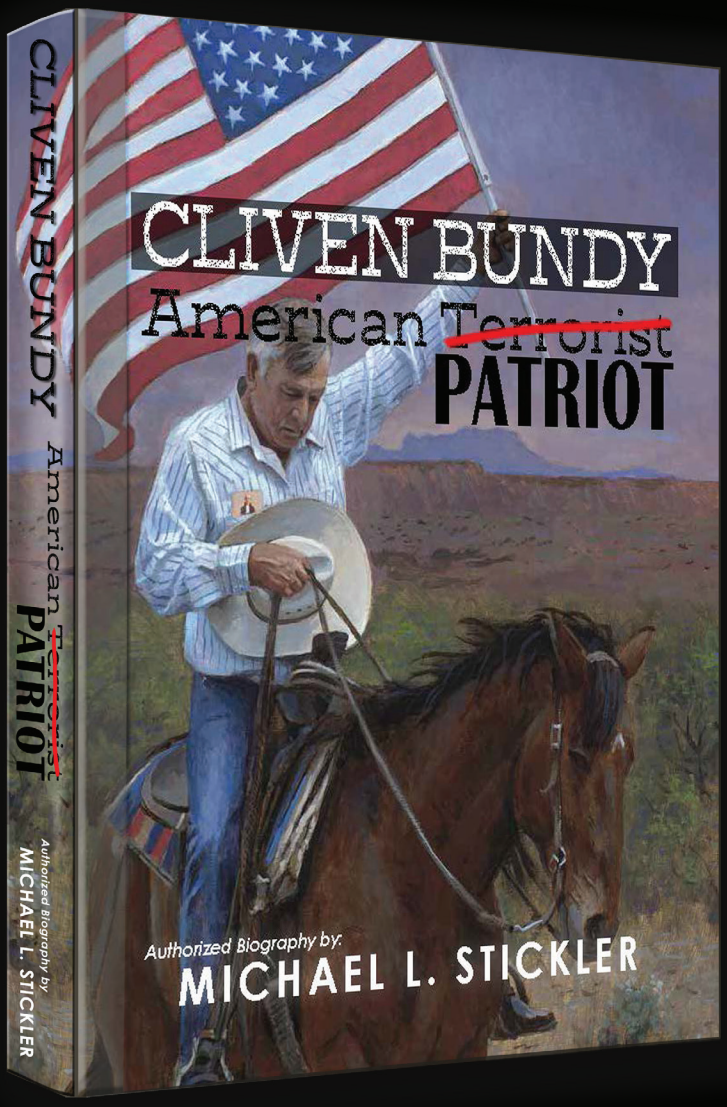
NOW HE TELLS THE REAL STORY...



In the shocking—yet true—story, as told to the author, with all its twists and turns, highs and lows of intrigue and the common sense of one man, his devoted family, and fellow patriots that are only matched by our Founding Fathers. It's a story not yet finished in its telling. It's a story every person, every family should read and declare in their own voice.

It's a story in which you must decide for yourself...

Is Cliven Bundy
an American Terrorist or an American Patriot?

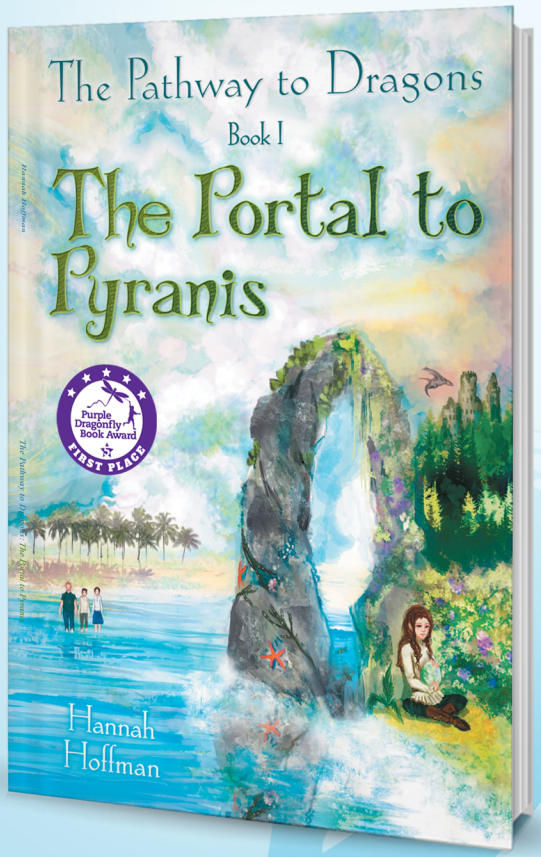
An action-packed tale of friendship and bravery...



Nine-year-old Billy Jones dreams of having a pet dragon! After finding an odd book at the library, strange events begin happening. While strolling on the beach, Billy and his friends discover an underwater stone arch. They decide to swim through it, and are transported to a fantastical forest where Billy learns that a dragon egg belonging to his family is about to hatch. But beware the dragon hunters!

Written for children by an author their age, 11-year-old Hannah Hoffman hopes to inspire other young dreamers.

"A charming, exceptionally well written, and unfailingly entertaining fantasy that is especially recommended for personal, elementary school, and community library collections for young readers ages 6 to 12."
